MCFL Teen Services Report to Library Commissioners Wednesday, August 14, 2019

Last year we developed our Statement of Purpose. This year we worked on projects that fit our fundamental values of Authentic Youth Participation, Social Justice, Literacies, and Intellectual Freedom.

I tried to separate our programs under each value but many of the projects incorporate more than a single value. From Summer Challenge to branch programs to book clubs, we integrate all our values with our interactions with teens. For instance – all our book clubs work with literacies, but those LGTBQ+ book clubs at STB and FAI combine that with intellectual freedom, and the book club at Juvenile Hall incorporates intellectual freedom and social justice. And an intense conversation about consent during a Dungeons & Dragons club also incorporated intellectual freedom and social justice.

At Juvenile Hall Civic Center's Natalie Weber and West Marin's Raemona Little-Taylor facilitated a session of a racial justice-themed book club. Youth read and discussed The Hate U Give. Discussion topics included "When was a time you did/did not stand up for someone, or they did/did not stand up for you?" The youth had recently watched the movie and were excited to compare it to the book.

The group discussed March: Book One, civil rights history, current racial equity issues, and the youths' personal experiences of race and oppression. The librarians also took the opportunity to introduce the youth to the library's digital resources. The youth watched clips from "Ain't Scared of Your Jails," episode three of PBS' Eyes on the Prize-America's Civic Rights Movement 1954-1985, available on Kanopy.

The final Marin County Juvenile Hall Book Club session discussed Ms. Marvel, Vol. 1. They watched a segment of Sana Amanat's Tedx Talk about creating Marvel's first Muslim superhero and discussed the Christchurch terror attacks and reflected on personal experiences with "stereotype threat".

WE launched our Honor Books Collections at all branches. This is a collection of books on issues important to teens that they may take as needed and return when they are finished using them. No library account is necessary. Stories about the collection were posted in the Marin IJ and the Point Reyes Light.

Marin City Library is stocking carts of free books in the Teen Area at the Community Center and in a local laundromat.

South Novato has a group of teen XR-Stars based on the Marin City WebStars. The XR-Stars created virtual vacation tours of National Parks that were used for Summer Challenge programs. A couple of XR-Stars and WebStars were able to participate in National Library Legislation Day and the ALA Nation Conference in Washington DC.

The Teen Services Committee provided two programs designed to help other library staff understand and work with teens. Our yearly Literature Review, open to MCFL and MARINet staff, highlights books, genres, formats and subjects of interest to teen readers. For All Staff Day we let staff know Why Teens Are Better Than Adults (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZmrXFDAEs7M) and introduced a video made by our teens about what the library means to them.

Upcoming projects for next year:

Teen Literature Review – we want to invite school librarians

Marin Teen Girls Conference – an interactive table in Exhibits Hall

Programming around community read of HIGH by David and Nic Sheff

Changes to Summer Challenge

For all Library Commissioners: South Novato is hosting a Youth vs. Adults Dance Battle tomorrow, Thursday August 15 at 5:30pm! You are all invited to show these teens what you've got!

President Kaplan thanked Janet and Eva for their presentations.

(8) NEW BUSINESS – Anya, Ann, Tyrone and Linda were reappointed by the Board of Supervisors to the Library Commission. There are still two vacancies, both in District 5.

(9) OLD BUSINESS

a. Update on NO Fines/Fees: Deputy Director Bonny White gave an update on how we are doing with no more late fees. She apprised the Commission that we are not allowed to waive fees from the other libraries. San Rafael Public Library and the San Anselmo Public Library are also fine free. Other libraries may follow suit soon.

(10) PRESIDENT'S REPORT FOR AUGUST

President Kaplan asked fellow Commissioners if anything stood out for anyone at this year's annual meeting in June. President Kaplan suggested putting name placards on tables at next year's annual meeting mixing up everyone, so that everyone is seated next to different people, each year.

(11) DIRECTOR'S REPORT FOR AUGUST

Chantel Walker, Assistant Director presented Sara's monthly report to the Commission in her absence. Chantel reported that:

- > we've added a FAQ section on why we went Fine Free, to the Director's report
- Facilities subcommittee comprised of: Nick, Sue and Ali will meet soon.
- ➤ 1.5 million dollars moved from our bottom line to go with the usual $500 thousand dollars that comes from Measure A for a total of $2 million. Most of these funds will go towards the Corte Madera and Novato roofs, along with some amount used for fire suppression. Commissioner Javaras suggested going solar for the libraries.
- Went to Board of Supervisors to ask for up to a 3 year Library Manager for Facilities position for the library

(12) ANNOUNCEMENTS

Next meeting will be held at the Corte Madera Library @ 7pm. Our Measure A meeting will take place prior to this meeting at 6pm.

(13) ADJOURNMENT – M/S/C-Schoen/Schandler -Meeting adjourned @ 7:40 p.m.

PG&E's Public Safety Power Shutdown (PSPS) affected our staff and patrons at the end of the month. We closed early on Saturday, October 26, and were closed on Monday, October 28. As I write this, we are open on, Tuesday, October 29, for patrons to return/borrow material, use computers and internet, and charge devices. Another PSPS is scheduled for later today so we will be open as long as we have power. Our staff did some behind the scenes work on Monday and also worked on MCFL mobile comfort stations. They are catching up with regular service today. Some staff are still without power at home so they are happy for power, wifi, charging abilities and AC.

Kathleen put together 4 bins of give-away books, both English and Spanish and for all reader levels, along with book bags, art supplies, craft activities, and a bag of comfort plushies for the families at the Marin Center Evacuation Center. She dropped them off at the Bookmobile and will remain available to help with kids and families staying in the evacuation center for the duration.

Alejandra Cruz was our guest story time provider as Civic Center families who normally would be at Music & Movement were the first official library kids to board and explore the new Learning Bus. About 40 kids and adults, many Spanish speaking, were delighted to learn of this resource and Alejandra did a great job welcoming Civic Center families.

Denise coordinated the 3rd year of the Costume Exchange on October 16th and 19th. Costumes and accessories, donated throughout the year, are displayed and given away. This year's costume exchange was well-attended, as there was a colorful assortment of costumes for all ages.

Natalie presented:

- Venetia Valley Book Club: students are reading the graphic novel Hey, Kiddo by Jarrett Krosoczka
- Book talks of new and popular titles to Miller Creek Middle School
- Books and book talks to Juvenile Hall where the students were introduced to the Marin Community Read title High by Nic and David Sheff to be discussed with Natalie and Diana next month
- Teen programs in the branch:
 - Taking the Stress Out of Taking Tests presented by Bara Sapir
 - teen craft program featuring DIY fluffy pumpkin dip

 a class visit and library orientation for 6th grade students from Montessori de Terra Linda

She placed the first giveaway book order of the fiscal year for Juvenile Hall and refreshed the teen bulletin board and librarian recommendations box for the new school year.

Linda responded to an experienced Libby user who called to say she was having problems with an audiobook download. They tried everything Libby Help suggested. It only worked when she returned the item (there were no other holds) and checked it out again. Then the download went smoothly in her Paris hotel room.

Elmer demonstrated for a patron who needed an image embedded in a PDF file downloaded from her email to be enlarged and printed: PDF (print screen) ② Microsoft Publisher (paste, crop, enlarge, print)

Linda worked several shifts at the Senior Fair: Seniors love our libraries! They looked surprised at the password notebook until they opened it and saw what it did. Then they smiled and said, "I can use that! How did you know?"

Linda hosted:

- The Man Beneath the Paint: Tilden Daken (in conjunction with the California Room)
- Senior Fraud/Marin Financial Specialist Team
- Brown Bag Book Club: The Library Book by Susan Orlean

Anne T Kent California Room

October 21st brought local author Peter Pike to our Map & Special Collections annex where he engaged the crowd with a presentation and book titled California Bound, in which he tracks his parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents for almost a century from the Gold Rush of 1849 to the Great Depression of the 1930s and to the eve of World War II at Marin's Hamilton Field. The event was followed by a book-signing and an animated Q & A.

On October 4, Laurie partnered with CCE's Linda Aldrich to host an illustrated talk and pop-up display by Bonnie Portnoy, grand-daughter of California Impressionist painter Tilden Daken (1876-1935) titled the The Man Beneath the Paint. Bonnie recounted her journey to uncover the mysteries of the grandfather she never knew and in her pop-up display featured some of Daken's Marin County landscapes.

We are thrilled to welcome new student intern Amanda Isaacs currently a senior at Dominican University who is majoring in history. After Dominican, Amanda plans to pursue studies in public history with the goal of becoming an archivist. Amanda will be helping us process a wide range of materials in our Cultural Services and Marin County Fair Collections.

Earlier in the month we hosted a group of students from Marin Catholic High School's photography class. The students were excited to take pictures of our historic Marin County Poor Farm ledger as well as residential directories from the 1800s, historic newspaper clippings, and even our beloved and often-used card catalog! The students were also looking forward to telling their teacher and classmates about the California Room "and what a cool place it is."

Our digital archive grew considerably this month thanks to the dedication of digital archivist Carol Acquaviva. Highlights include a collection of Women's Suffrage materials from the Kent Family collection focusing on the activities of suffrage leader Elizabeth Thacher Kent and her husband Congressman William Kent. In anticipation of the centennial of the passage of the 19th Amendment in 2020, we will continue to add new resources to this collection to celebrate women's suffrage and voter rights.

Also online are two photograph albums belonging to San Rafael pioneer Isaac Shaver from about 1885. The first shows scenes along the North Pacific Coast Railroad, beginning with Richardson Bay and the ferry terminal at Sausalito, continuing past Mt. Tamalpais, Mill Valley, and parts of Sonoma County. The second focuses on San Rafael and the Ross Valley.

A prospectus, circa 1908, for a real estate development in Tamalpais Valley can also be viewed online as can a collection of historic survey ledgers belonging to Joseph Voorhies, covering the years 1941 through 1961.

This month, ace volunteer & retired librarian Dayle Reilly has added over 25 new oral histories to our digital archive! Our digital oral history collection now includes 160 interviews.

On October 24, oral historian Marilyn Geary & I interviewed Warren Heiman. Warren's father Samuel Heiman was a prominent Marin County architect and also served as the model for Marin's World War I Doughboy monument. Warren has donated his father's original World War I satchel – the very satchel one can see around the neck of the WW I Doughboy monument at the Avenue of the Flags.

Oral Historian Marilyn Geary has also conducted a follow-up interview with Phyllis Gould, who served a home front assignment in WWII as a "Rosie The Riveter." In this interview, Phyllis recounts her trip last June to France where she attended the commemorative events marking the 75th anniversary of D-Day.

Anne T. Kent California Room Brief Additional Updates

- Carol completed the Librarian's Guide to Homelessness.
- Laurie attended the Supervisory training for Munis and Executime.
- Laurie helped out at the bookmobile where MCFL was providing services to evacuees from Sonoma County fleeing the Kincaid Fire.

Corte Madera

The shiny new Learning Bus paid us a visit during our Baby Bounce in October. 40 caregivers and children got to share a story time with Allie and to tour and play in the new bus.

Spotted in the morning before the library opens: several tiny youngsters clamoring to get into the library – they were literally pounding on our front door on Tuesday morning, in anticipation of attending Baby Bounce!

Our challenge in setting up the meeting room for a black-light Halloween puppet show was how to darken the room. We scheduled the show for 7:00 pm and Jackie Foster, Library Assistant II, installed black-out curtains. That did the trick. The effects were spectacular, the stage enormous (12' across), and Winnie the Witch was a little scary but not terrifying. Many thanks to the Corte Madera Friends for sponsoring this one-of-a-kind show.

"Mommy, can I come here every day?" Judi Evans was chatting with a boy and explained how you can receive a raffle ticket each day you check out books during the month of Sharktober. Kim Turold, Library Assistant I, made tiny flyers featuring Bruce the Pixar shark and staff have been kept busy passing out tickets for the 10 grow sharks raffle to be held on Sharktober 31.

Sarah Butts, Youth Services Librarian, and Shane Ebert, Library Assistant II, visited the 7th graders at Kent Middle School this month, creating 40 new library cards for students and giving classroom demos of the Libby app. Sarah had never seen classrooms of 7th graders so quiet and attentive -kids were really excited to have access to the audiobooks in particular.

Another young patron, after many years getting great recommendations from Marilyn Wronsky, Children's Librarian, has now graduated to the Teen section and stopped by the desk multiple Saturdays in a row asking for teen fantasy series suggestions! I [Ana Stanescu, Librarian I] got him started with a few, and also asked for Sarah (our Youth Services Librarian's) advice since she's not here on Saturdays. It's great to see him continue to use us as a resource, and I'm excited to maintain that relationship of trust we established early on, where he knows librarians are here to support him. He and his dad are often in together on the weekends!

And, teens at Corte Madera got together and got into the Halloween spirit, decorating the Teen Area with lots of spooky stuff!

Corte Madera

Ana Stanescu, Librarian I, shared: Two thirteen year-old kids came in together, one of whom is already a regular and uses Chromebooks. Her friend was sort of hanging back away from the desk, and when we asked if she wanted a Chromebook, too she was hesitant about having us pull up her library card. It turned out she had a bunch of billed children's books on there from years ago when she was quite small, so we did a clean slate for her account and she was able to get a Chromebook with her friend! She's visited a couple times since then and even asked about volunteering. Removing the barriers for kids to access technology tools gives them the opportunity to learn and grow!

Corte Madera

Swing Fever, a local jazz band that has been performing for 40 years, infused the library with music on a recent evening. Patrons were delighted, and not just those who came to hear the performance. One of our regular tutors said it was really nice to study with music and asked if we could have music every night. A family of five, with three children, danced and read along to the music. The kids are big readers and Dad commented, "If there's free music, we'll be there". The Friends of the Corte Madera Library made new Friends at this event—collecting memberships and talking with patrons about their goals and accomplishments.

The library incubates creativity – the adult beading workshop, led by the talented Amanda Tomlin, L1 at Novato, was filled to capacity with a roomful of very happy patrons who had the opportunity to learn a new skill and create a beautiful necklace in a fun, supportive environment. Amanda and Shereen Ash L2, who arranged for and assisted with the program, received compliments, "thank yous" or hugs from all who attended.

And, our Halloween discovery wall, covered in cobwebs and all manner of creepy crawlies drew in all ages – many kids and adults enjoyed exploring the seasonal delights on display!

Corte Madera Brief Additional Updates

- The Corte Madera Library received an AED from the town of Corte Madera.
- The library had all its carpets and bathroom tile cleaned.
- ➤ Julie Magnus attended the LJ course Equity in Action.
- > Julie Magnus, Shereen Ash and Lynn Fabian attended MUNIS Supervisor Executime Training.

Fairfax

While Iris Meinolf, Children's Librarian, and April Hayley, Librarian II, attended CLA in Pasadena, Margaret Miles, Branch Manager, presented the weekly Mother Goose on the Loose Program October 24. Approximately 60 babies, toddlers and their caregivers were in attendance. Margaret found that she knew some rhymes that were new to the crowd. In one case, the entire crowd knew a different version of "Zoom zoom zoom" and taught it to Margaret! Neshama Franklin, Library Assistant I, filled in that afternoon and used her storytelling skills to perform a dramatic story time program.

Iris scheduled a trained dog from Marin Humane for "Read to a Dog" on Saturday Oct. 19. The kids who showed up had a great time reading to Loki. One young boy who was afraid of dogs was encouraged to enter the room by his friend, and reassured by Loki's calmness, eventually petted the dog. As he left, he said "I think I like dogs now." Two of the attendees were inspired to walk around the parking lot area and pick up all the trash they could find! We're very impressed with the civic-minded nature of our young patrons.

Teen volunteers, overseen by April and John Elison, Library Assistant II, helped decorate the library for Halloween and set up a display for "Inktober." Inktober encourages teens to be creative, to grow, improve and form positive habits. Teens who take the Inktober challenge make a drawing every day in ink, post it on social media and hashtag it with #inktober2019.

A patron who knew April from San Anselmo asked if she would find a volunteer to read with her 8-year-old daughter. April found a teen volunteer who is now meeting in the library with the daughter and mom. This is our first "Reading Buddy" and April is hoping to create more opportunities for teens to volunteer.

Fairfax

When the computers, the printers, the copiers, the scanner, the phones, the wifi and all the power go out in Fairfax, what do we do? WE OPEN ANYWAY! The amazing staff at the Fairfax library kept the doors open on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 29 & 30, despite a countywide power outage. Staff used LED headlamps to light their way and loaned them out to patrons so they could see the shelves. We put out the newspapers and games in our community room, and brought out a pitcher and cups when we discovered the water fountain did not work either (it's electric). We directed people to the nearest charging stations, helped one woman jumpstart her car (she had been using the battery to charge her phone), and offered an ear and sympathy for everyone who wanted to tell their story. We heard over and over how grateful people were that we were open; they felt reassured, comforted and better informed. 126 patrons checked out 337 books; staff wrote down library & book barcodes and entered them into Sierra once our power was restored.

Huge thanks to April, Anthony, Aaron, John, Janet, Iris, Anna and Terry for working in the dark and the cold!

Fairfax library served as a livestream location for a sold-out program at Dominican. Michael Krasny of KQED Radio interviewed David & Nic Sheff, authors of the book High: Everything You Want to Know About Drugs, Alcohol and Addiction. A day after announcing we would be livestreaming, we had 45 RSVPs for the program. Aaron Fong, Library Assistant II, set up the projector and insured there were no technical difficulties, while April Hayley, Librarian II, introduced the program. 22 attendees were able to view the interview remotely from our location, and many parents brought their teens with them. April raffled off 10 copies of the book, and received grateful comments from everyone present.

Marin City

On Saturday, October 5, through a partnership with Marin County Parks and Golden Gate Conservancy, Caldecott Honor Medalist Brendan Wenzel visited our branch. He read from his extraordinary new picture book, "A Stone Sat Still," and talked about his Story Walk at Bothin Marsh and his great affection for all things furred, feathered, and scaly. The Friends of the Marin City Library bought 25 copies of "A Stone Sat Still" to give away to community members who came to the event. Brendan graciously signed copies—much to the delight of those in attendance!

On Wednesday, October 16, Alejandra and Maribel brought the new Learning Bus to our morning story times! Preschool kids and their teachers from the Marin Learning Center and Horizon Community School came to the library. Alejandra and Maribel rotated the groups with Alejandra doing story time and a painting project in the library with one set of kids while the other went inside the Learning Bus to play. Community members also came and learned all about the exciting, engaging, and educational programs that Alejandra offers. Everyone had a great time and loved the Learning Bus!

On Saturday, October 12, we hosted Alexandria Brown, author of "The Hidden History of Napa Valley." It was a well-attended event coordinated by our Friends of the Marin City Library Board Member Jill Murphy. Alexandria spoke about how the wine country there was built on more than just vineyards. Napa Valley is known for its wine and winemakers, but just beneath the fertile soil lies another, more complex version of its history.

Marin City Library Brief Additional Updates

- On October 8 we had a four-author panel of local mystery writers come speak about their work. This was coordinated by Friends of the Marin City Library Board Member Jill Murphy.
- ➤ On October 10 and again on October 28-29, Sara and Bonny—in partnership with Marin County Health and Human Services and Marin Community Services District supplied our Flagship as a Comfort Station with wifi hotspots from Marin City Library, chargers, water, giveaway flashlights, batteries, books, and more and parked it near the Health and Wellness Center in Marin City. Marin City Library staff including Etienne, Faheem, Aneta, Kayla, and Diana took shifts to help out. Thank you to Maribel for driving the bus down to Marin City and back!

> We had a lot to contend with the two power outages in Marin City this month. Bayside MLK remained open during both. Kayla and Shayla kept the library and Smarty Ants running. Shayla even did a "camp-out" story time in the school library, reading by light from the windows and Diana's LED lantern. The kids enjoyed it!

- > On Friday, October 11, we hosted Your Voice, Your Story: A 20 in 20 Litquake Event, coordinated and sponsored by Litquake. Maria Ramos-Chertok, local author and founder of The Butterfly Series led an interactive writing and self-development workshop. There were about 7 people in attendance, and everyone shared positive feedback with us as they left.
- ➤ On Wednesday, October 16, Sara Jones and Diana Lopez hosted a livestream of the HIGH Community Read Conversation with David and Nic Sheff at Dominican University. Each person in attendance received a copy of the book. Participants voiced their appreciation for access to the conversation since it had filled up at Dominican so quickly. They shared their own experiences with family members' addiction, and the relief to be able to bond was palpable. One man even brought his tween/teen daughter.
- Etienne, Faheem, and Alanna, one of our Webstars, attended the California Library Association Conference which took place October 24--26 in Pasadena. They were on a panel presentation about VR and AR and Webstars/XRstars.
- At Bayside MLK, Kayla our embedded CLS has co-founded a PTA along with Jameer Reynolds, the school's Community School Relations Coordinator.
- Also at Bayside MLK, Shayla is working with Reading Buddies volunteers who are Dominican University Service Learning Students. We also have one volunteer who comes to the branch once per week and two who go to Willow Creek Academy to work with students there.

Novato

This year was our fourth Fall Showcase, an event that highlights the latest and greatest in new non-fiction and more for NUSD library clerks. Children's staff at Novato creates a colorful packet to go with the event that includes covers, reviews and leveling information on almost 200 titles. This event has grown to include requests for new titles in Spanish and easy chapter books. This year we had seven NUSD elementary library clerks attend, as well as a middle school clerk. The library clerks all attend on their personal time and say that they look forward to this event all year, as it is a huge help to them in ordering books for their collections. It is also a wonderful way to connect to the schools and learn more about their needs.

NUSD's Compass Class has re-started its monthly visits to the library. The class comes to pick-up a title that they all read together and to pick out more books to read at home. This is a wonderful way for these students who are in a non-traditional classroom to connect to literature and the library.

We also had 17 in-house programs this month and 1 outreach visit.

The Spooky Terrarium Program was a hit! (Photo at left) We had 38 people and it was nothing but good times and praise for the library with kids, tweens and teens participating.

Mary DeMocker, author of The Parents' Guide to Climate Revolution engaged several youths and their families on October 24 in a lively, empowering, and doable discussion about the urgent endeavor of climate revolution. She shared with them ways to feel empowered in the fight for a healthy planet while deepening our connections to one another. Attendees left with at least three easy ways to help change our system – not just our light bulbs.

The Novato Library participated in a live-streaming event from Dominican University on October 16 with David & Nic Sheff talking about their newest teen book, High: Everything You Want to Know About Drugs, Alcohol, and Addiction. Due to overwhelming interest and a sold-out venue at Dominican, a number of library locations throughout the county live-streamed the event.

Novato Library continues to reach out to the schools to help students learn 21st Century skills. As of the end of October, all the 5th graders at Pleasant Valley Elementary have received information and hands-on training on using Overdrive and Hoopla to access MCFL-sponsored eBooks, audiobooks, music and movies on their school-issued Chromebooks. Plans are underway to offer the same training at Rancho Elementary next month.

Janet Doerge, along with her MCFL colleagues Jennifer Livingston (PRE), Ann Bertucci (INV), Shereen Ash (CMA) and Linda Aldrich (CCE, not pictured), celebrated the seniors in our County at the Senior Fair on October 23. They offered free information about library services, free books and had lively conversations with some of our most supportive patrons. It also gave staff the opportunity to meet and mingle with other agencies and share resources and ideas about partnering.

Novato Library offered another round of a 2-day memoir workshop to help participants learn how to get their life stories and memories flowing by interacting with other workshop participants through discussion, writing, reading, and listening. The workshop was conducted by Jean Stumpf, who, in addition to her previous workshops at Novato Library, has conducted memoir classes at the Margaret Todd Sr. Ctr. and Whistlestop in San Rafael.

South Novato

South Novato is bustling with eager readers since we launched our Reading Buddies program October 1. We partnered with Hamilton Meadow Park to identify students in grades K-3 who most needed reading support. Currently, we have 24 students, 12 tutors and a wait list! Our thoughtful volunteers (including 6 Dominican University students) are forming great bonds as kids choose books to read, an after school snack and literacy games to play.

Through Reading Buddies, new families are using the library and parents are getting library cards alongside their kids. Many parents asked if we tutor adults, too. We were so happy to offer our new ESL classes as an option. (See below)

With help from guest librarian Serena M, we also hosted a Día de los Muertos program for families on October 26 just before we lost power.

Our Makerspace is busier than ever. This month we averaged 22 kids per day afterschool, with 21 days of programming. That's almost 500 learning interactions! Three cheers for makerspace coordinator Sara Bolduc, and our XRStars who are helping out. Our theme for the month was People and Things that Transform. Members were encouraged to use Fibers, Heat and Empathy to make something that transforms or is transformative. Makers showed a special interest in food science, experimenting with heat, baking and spherification!

South Novato

South Novato opened in between power outages on October 29, while 68,000 households were still without power. We set up device charging stations, helped people load up Kindles and iPads, fielded dozens of phone reference calls, and played movies on our big screen TV for kids – plus coffee, cookies and hot cocoa, too. Everyone was grateful and in good spirits.

The next day a mother and daughter came in to check out a book and several documentaries. As they were leaving the mom said, "I want you to know how much we value and appreciate the library."

South Novato

With the help of certified instructor-volunteers, South Novato began two weekly ESL classes. Spots filled up quickly through word-of-mouth at local schools. Several Reading Buddies' parents registered for classes, too. Currently we have 13 students. Many thanks to Renee and Mattie for teaching these long-awaited classes.

Worthy of praise once again: Ezra! Who provided excellent customer service for a regular patron with a DVD stuck in his player at home? Ezra researched the model and fixed the problem after the patron brought the whole player into the library. Talk about hands-on help! The patron mentioned that he loves how he can always find great movies on our shelves without worry about wasting money if he does not enjoy every one. "The best credit card I've got is my library card," he said.

After months of anticipation, our Learning Bus is finally here! It was delivered on October 3rd.

The Learning Bus team: Raemona, Alejandra, Bonny and Sara presented to the Board of Supervisors on October 8^{th.} The BOS received the very first showing of the Learning Bus! Everyone was very impressed and interested to know more about our program, we thanked the board members, County of Marin, Marin Community Foundation, the Library Foundation, First 5 Marin, and the Parent Services Project for their support and funding for the Learning Bus, we couldn't have done it without them.

Our community grand reveal event "Goodbye FLAGship! Hello Learning Bus!" was a total success! We believe there were over 100 attendees! Current families, old families, grandpas and grandmas, siblings, friends and even dogs gathered to celebrate the arrival of our brand-new bus. We had a variety of stations — Art: Design your own bus-cutout, sensory bins, chalk, bubbles and button making. We also had the amazing participation of musician Jacob Leyva and the talented face painter Wendy (everyone's favorite). Families enjoyed their time on the bus, visited other trucks from Ghilotti Brothers, Marin Humane Society and Marin Parks as well as our wonderful Bookmobile and FLAGship.

Throughout the month of October, the Learning Bus offered library visits filled with play, stories, songs, activities and lots of fun. During these visits we met new prospective families and began to form relationships. We hope that these visits are only the beginning of a stronger bond and connection between our program and our sister libraries. In the future I would like to do more of these events. We had great turnouts at all our visits, the Novato library had about 75 people!

Alejandra and Maribel have been working hard loading, organizing and getting the Learning Bus ready for families, we can't wait to get back on the road!

The Bolinas library recently launched a series of children's programs led by Vanessa Waring, Community Library Specialist. The new afterschool Lego club and "crafternoons" are providing a positive, fun, and creative environment for children to engage with each other and their caregivers. This month, the children created apple boats, and apple tower/creature building as well as making apple bookmarks.

Kerry Livingston and Annemarie Russo led the livestreaming events at Point Reyes library and Bolinas-Stinson School.

Jane Silvia, Ann Bertucci, and Jennifer Livingston represented the West Marin Libraries at the Marin County Senior Fair on October 23rd.

West Marin Literacy Services partnered with Shoreline Unified School district to provide a free California Food Handlers Permit Course at the Point Reyes Library. For a rigorous 8-hour day, patrons studied techniques and technologies of food safety with local food safety expert, Steve Cohen. Full Spanish-to-English translation was provided by library staff, and local wood-fires pizza and refreshments were provided for all. The culmination of the day was the standard food handler's exam, which was completed by all in attendance.

Local Bolinas photographer, Ilka Hartmann, currently has a photo exhibit, Rise of the Native American Power Movement, at the Point Reyes library, which includes photos from the Native American occupation of Alcatraz from 1969-1971.

After months of planning for the North Bay Science Discovery Day held at the Santa Rosa Fairgrounds on Saturday, October 26th, the event was unfortunately cancelled moments after setting up due to the fires in Sonoma County. The area was quickly turned into a staging area for local and state emergency services.

The following Monday however, the Bookmobile was deployed to Marin Center to support all the evacuees seeking help at the shelter. This included whole families comprised of all ages including toddlers, teens, adults and seniors, as well as some with special medical needs that had been displaced by the fires.

We were visited by a number of people throughout the event including Chantel Walker and Assemblyman Marc Levine and staff.

A gigantic thanks goes out to Hillsman Heath and Jose Rodas for their swift support, also to John, Allison, Freddie and Heidi of the Healdsburg library, they showed up team-heavy on Wednesday with lots of additional books and arts and crafts.

We had 6-8 boxes of giveaway books as well as arts and crafts, crayons and coloring pencils with paper designs, soccer balls and toys to give-away at the Marin Center Evacuee Shelter.

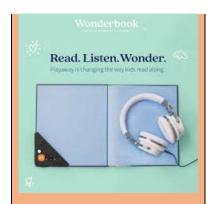

The smoke-filled winds stayed away from the area for the most part, which encouraged the kids to get outside, get some fresh air, get some sun and take a break from the somewhat dark and noisy main area of the shelter.

At the Marin Center Evacuee Shelter, we were happy to notice the Playaways were very popular among everybody, it seems they provided a great escape away from the crowded and very noisy shelter.

With thanks to Clara McFadden, we're piloting a new program using "Wonderbooks", which are essentially a BookPack condensed into the size of an Easy Reader without the bulky external packaging. They appear to be easy to use and we look forward to the response and feedback we get from them. With shelf space at a premium on the Bookmobile, we're hoping they become a popular, alternative choice to the BookPacks or as another bridge into Easy Readers themselves.

Books and Playaways in both English and Spanish appealed to many of the adults at the Evacuation Shelter. Many of those in need were Spanish speaking only and the Bookmobile was able to provide them with hopefully something familiar that again could serve as a welcome distraction to their current situation.

There were also a number of people in wheelchairs that required using our wheelchair lift to come aboard, which provided them the ability to aboard and select an item of their own choosing.

A patron wanted to sync her audiobook to her Microsoft desktop computer because she wanted to listen to her book through headphones. You can download an OverDrive App to your Microsoft computer, but it was hard to install and set up. The easiest way to sync your device to your computer is to use libbyapp.com.

Start at the Libby App on your device:

Tap on the Libby icon → Tap set up Libby → Tap Show setup code.

On Libbyapp.com, the home screen is a set-up screen. Say yes to having a library card; yes, if you have Libby on another device copy card across. Tap "Show set up code," and use the code number from your device. type it into the libbyapp.com and then you are synced. Not sure if this will work with a Mac computer and it still wouldn't solve the initial download issue.

Elmer instructed a patron in changing settings for automatic checkout in both Libby and OverDrive. He helped a patron in finalizing a PowerPoint slide show, saving it to her flash drive, and attaching it to an email message to the recipient, and explored with a patron workarounds that would allow him to continue downloading eAudiobooks to his portable device given that OverDrive eAudiobooks are no longer downloadable to a Mac computer.

Tricia organized the tribute to missing and POW veterans. It was very powerful in its simplicity. While the commemoration was for just one day, we've left it up for the week so that it will be available to the Vets who meet with the VA volunteer the last Wednesday of the month. Here's the key to the table:

The small table is set for one, representing the frailty of one prisoner, alone against his or her suppressors. The table is usually set close to, or within sight of, the entrance to the dining room.

- The table is round showing our everlasting concern for our POW/MIA's.
- The cloth is white symbolizing the purity of their intentions to respond to their country's call to arms.
- The single red rose signifying the blood they may have shed in sacrifice to ensure the freedom of our beloved United States of American. This rose, reminding us of the family and friends of our missing comrades who keep the faith, while awaiting their return.
- The yellow ribbon stands for the yellow ribbons worn on the lapels of the thousands who demand with unyielding determination a proper accounting of our comrades who are not among us tonight.
- A slice of lemon reminding us of the bitter fate of those missing, captured and held as prisoners in foreign lands.

In celebration of the Centennial of the completion of Alpine Dam in 1919, the Anne T. Kent California Room in partnership with the Marin Municipal Water District (MMWD), has put together a special exhibit in the California Room's display cases at the Civic Center Library, co-curated by Librarian Laurie Thompson & MMWD's Donna Lahey.

The exhibit showcases enlargements documenting the construction of the Alpine Dam and includes some rare artifacts and 100-year old tools from the MMWD's collection. Digital Archivist Carol Acquaviva has also put together a wonderful online display.

We receive positive feedback about our exhibit on a daily basis, as this is the first time the public has had an opportunity to see some of the rare photos and artifacts from MMWD's collection.

We are happy to report that some of the items digitized last month by ACT 3 partners are now live and available to the public. Digital Archivist Carol Acquaviva has added the following items: The 1873 Map of Marin County, California, Compiled by H. Austin, County Surveyor, from Official Surveys and Records; and The 1892 Official Map of Marin County, California, Compiled from Records and Surveys by Geo. M. Dodge. Carol also did an outstanding job of digital restoration on the 1892 map, a part of which was damaged and affected by water stains. Also live online are several of our spectacular large framed views documenting the era of the Mt. Tamalpais & Muir Woods Railway.

Carol has also been working with our newest volunteer -Dayle Reilly-the former head of Special Collections at Sonoma State University. Dayle was conversant with CONTENTdm from her previous job experience and Carol has provided her with additional training which Dayle has quickly mastered. In fact, Dayle has already added twelve new oral histories to our online collection for the public to enjoy.

75 people joined us for the launch of our fall local history lecture series on September 16th when author & historian Lynn Downey presented the history of Marin's Arequipa Sanatorium: Life in California's Lung Resort for Women. The event was followed by a book-signing and an animated Q & A. Lynn's interesting talk discussed how this pioneering sanatorium came to be founded in Marin County and what life was like for the working-class women who went there to recover from tuberculosis. Both Lynn's talk & book are especially poignant because Lynn's own grandmother recovered from tuberculosis at Arequipa and because Lynn had the opportunity to interview others connected with the sanatorium.

Today, the site of Arequipa is a girl scout camp and many from the local girl scout community attended our event.

Our new Spanish storytimes with Lexi have been an engaging and fun time for kids and their caregivers! All ages are welcome for this storytime, and Lexi mixes it up with a variety of books, drawings and music. We've also put the word out about this new offering in our Library Corners in two local laundromats, as we hope to spread the news of all the services available through the library. We've been able to add this series due to the generosity of our Friends of the Corte Madera Library, and we are finding it has a devoted following.

Corte Madera staff members Sarah Butts and Kim Turold came in extra bright and early on Saturday, Sept.21, to help prepare the Friends of the Corte Madera Library Community Room for the practice SAT test we offered to teens. This simulated SAT experience was provided totally free to students in collaboration with C2 Education, and each student will get their results and feedback about how they performed, in order to help them when they end up taking the actual SAT. Sophomores facing the PSATs in October found it provided insight into the question formats and timing.

This month was also Marin Comics Fest, and Corte Madera hosted local artist/illustrator Eda Kaban, who shared her creative process and books "What Makes A Hero", "Even Superheroes Have Bad Days" and "Pirates don't go to Kindergarten." Her presentation appealed to a range of ages. Staffer Jenna Selzler coordinated the program and created a display for our discovery wall for all ages—and our Children's Librarian, Marilyn Wronsky, highlighted comics in the Children's Room. Staffer Kim Turold contributed a creative banner to hang over our returns slot.

Youth Services Librarian Sarah Butts attended Kent Middle School's Community Outreach Fair aimed at 8th grade volunteers and other community members; she was able to share information about how kids can volunteer at the library.

Libraries are all about providing access and resources to people, and in September we celebrate Banned Books week to highlight the chilling effect censorship has on freedom, democracy, creativity and imagination. Our display provides info on what books have been banned over the past year in the U.S., as well as over time. Censorship is also a problem in the virtual, digital environment, as recent moves by some publishers to limit library lending of ebooks illustrates (Macmillan Publishers' CEO John Sargent has proposed an embargo which restricts libraries to purchasing only one copy of each ebook title for the first eight weeks after a book's release, set to go into effect November 1, 2019). More information can be found at http://www.ala.org/advocacy/e-books

The American Library Association has created a petition to urge the reverse of the embargo. You can read and sign it here:

This month we were very fortunate to host two programs that enabled patrons to better understand the history and culture of the Coast Miwok, and the people of China. Local author and honorary member of the Coast Miwok, Betty Goerke, gave a presentation about the Coast Miwok who lived in and around Corte Madera to an overflow crowd of 67. The audience was engaged, asking many questions and the enthusiasm for the subject and the speaker was evident. Two members of the tribe also attended. And, thanks to the generosity of the Friends of Corte Madera, we were able to offer a talk in honor of Miriam Cooper, a longtime "Friend" and library volunteer by a docent from the Asian Art Museum who shared insights about the hidden meanings to be found in Chinese Art. To commemorate "Never Forgotten – Their Sacrifice, Our Mission -POW/MIA Recognition Day", we created a display highlighting the experience and sacrifice of those who gave their all, and the families that feel their loss the most keenly.

Tuesday September 17 April Hayley, Adult/Teen Services Librarian II, held her first Teen Book Club. We had five 7th graders, one 8th grader, and a little sister who is in 5th grade. The group engaged in a great discussion of The 57 Bus and talked a lot about pronouns. Everyone wore a pronoun button and some kids left wearing theirs. April created a safe space where the teens felt comfortable discussing delicate issues like sexuality and gender. Our next book is Simon Vs. The Homo Sapien Agenda, another LGBTQ-positive read.

John Elison, Library Assistant II and dungeon master extraordinaire, held his monthly D&D club on Tuesday, September 24, and 13 teens showed up. This is a huge number for an interactive game; John used impressive storytelling and facilitation skills to wrangle many different personalities, forming a cohesive campaign that kept everyone engaged. He ended the afternoon's session on a cliffhanger and everyone is excited to return for next month's adventure!

April, working with SURJ-Marin, held a Film and Conversation program about dismantling the school to prison pipeline on Saturday, September 21. 25 attendees viewed a short film about the Restorative Justice program at the Oakland Unified School District and a second film about the Marin County Youth Court. Then SURJ-Marin members posed questions to the three panelists: Lori Frugoli (DA), John Wallace (Marin City Native and formerly incarcerated at San Quentin, who went on to found an organization called Surviving the Odds Project), and Don Carney, the founder and leader of the Marin Youth Court.

The audience also asked some great hard-hitting questions, like who is the Marin County Sheriff office accountable to and how can we get them to start referring their kids to Youth Court rather than Probation. John Wallace spoke about barriers to reentry after being incarcerated, laws and practices that make it difficult to start a new life after prison, and his non-profit organization which empowers youth through musical self-expression. He got very emotional during his talk; he was thankful to have an audience hear his painful personal story and it was moving to hear him speak. Lori Frugoli talked about her work to change the culture inside her department to encourage restorative justice rather than punishment. Partnering with SURJ-Marin on our Film & Conversation series, the Fairfax library is working to change perceptions and culture in our community around equity issues.

Recently Librarian Adrienne Graham had a family come in looking for books on how to make new friends. They were new to the area and wanted to help their boys with their new school. I recommended a book that was just released called "The Buddy Bench" by Patty Brozo which talks about a elementary class creating a spot outside for anyone who is looking for a friend or someone to play with (so that no one has to spend their recess alone). This family came in at a later date and the Dad told Adrienne that the boys loved the story so much that they wanted to take it to school and share it with their teacher. They did and now their class is working on building their own spot or "buddy bench" at Rancho Elementary. This made Adrienne's day and she told the boys they should be proud of themselves for helping create something so special for their own school.

Librarian Amanda Tomlin met with 22 very excited sixth-graders at San Jose Middle School with the school's Library Aide Molly Brown for a library-led book club.. Molly loves to read and has gotten the kids enthusiastic about reading too and they all are delighted to have the Library leading a program there. Amanda brought two titles: Dry, in which author Neal Shusterman takes a what-if scenario about the California drought and morphs it to freaky disaster proportions. The kids love it! The other title is a graphic novel, Treaties, Trenches, Mud, and Blood by Nathan Hale, an easy to understand, funny, informative, and lively series to be introduce some of the most well-known battles (and little-known secrets) of the World War I.

Librarian Laura Kennett met with twenty-two seventh graders from Our Lady of Loretto School at the Novato Library for a presentation on MCFL's student resources and eBooks. The class used Help Now! to play hangman and to do math flashcard. Overdrive's collection of Banned Books sparked some good conversation. And, the class listened to an article on the Moon Jellyfish. They were a really engaged and remembered the resources and how to get to them during the review at the end of class.

Librarian Tom McGibney set up a very successful program on Mindful Eating: A Three Part Series with Claire R. Cohn, M.A. Claire is a Weight Management Coach, Movement Educator & Qigong Instructor. These interactive workshops helped participants:

- -Learn how to combat "all or nothing thinking" concerning diets
- -Practice relaxation to avoid compulsive eating
- -Learn best practices help curb cravings
- -Tame the "hungry self" by slowing down reactions
- -Plan ahead for meals and snacks
- -Learn tips to handle nighttime eating and get better sleep.
- -Assess their personal eating style and distinguish between "gut or head hunger"
- -Learn to make better food and meal choices.

Librarian Amanda Tomlin offered her ever popular Open Studio craft session this month. The group tackled the versatile and important monotype using either a small press or the time-honored spoon printing method. They talked about the whys and wherefores of the process while exploring the manifold options an artist has with this method.

We are back to school with a lot of excitement this year. Although we've had to reduce storytimes, and Friday Fun Days due to staffing shortages, we are happy to say the changes enable us to refocus on exciting new programs. Next month we will launch a Reading Buddies literacy program, with volunteer tutors every day of the week! Baby storytime continues on Thursdays at 12pm, Read to a Dog continues biweekly, and we still have Lego Club on Fridays.

We are also continuing our Craft-n-Create series for families on the fourth Saturday of each month. In October, this will coincide with a special Día de los Muertos program led by guest librarian Serena Makofsky on October 26.

Our makerspace is a hub for constant creativity, as well as a space for positivity, team work, collaboration and youth-directed projects. This month, while brainstorming projects on the theme "tools that help," our LunaTech students were inspired by the growing trend to decorate girl's bathrooms with inspiring messages. A pair of girls took the lead and created a sign for our restroom: "Real girls aren't perfect. Perfect girls aren't real." (See photo left).

Sometimes, the most important thing we make is a student's day.

We are also seeing record attendance this year (an average of 20 per day, and 397 member visits this month)! About one-third are new members!

On any given day, patrons are working on job applications, enjoying e-Resources, gaming, using social media, searching for housing, and more. Our capable team answers questions helping patrons develop skills for our digital era. We are grateful to have our XRStars on board to help. Stay tuned for e-Help later this fall...

The Playaways continue to gain ground with our seniors with eyesight issues. They have proven to be easier for visually impaired users than our traditional audiobooks. The audiobooks on cd are more difficult for seniors to keep track of and it's also harder to keep track of where you left off listening with cds. The pause button on the Playaway is an easy solution to this problem and is gaining converts.

From bustling street markets to the halls of Japan's finest universities to the pachinko parlors of the criminal underworld, Lee's complex and passionate characters--strong, stubborn women, devoted sisters and sons, fathers shaken by moral crisis--survive and thrive against the indifferent arc of history." Kathleen supervised a team of 15 youth volunteers who kept the Summer Challenge running for 10 weeks. This summer's team was especially wonderful. The team included a set of 12-year old triplet brothers. One volunteer of note, 17-year old Anna Qui, is heading off to Carnegie Melon University this Fall to major in computer science. Anna's mother brought her to storytime as little girl, she eventually began volunteering with Miss Kitty for a record number of 6 summers, and now is off to Carnegie Melon. Anna will be profiled in an upcoming issue of The Volunteer View published by Marin County's Human Resources Department. Emma Northcutt, also 17-years old volunteered along with her 14-year old brother Henry. Commenting on her school's volunteer documentation and evaluation she said of her experience: [Reflect on how you felt about your service and yourself:] "I really like the environment of the library, and I hope I created a welcoming and quiet environment for the kids I helped so that they will become library lovers, too. I remember doing the summer reading challenge when I was in elementary school, too, so I was glad to give back to the program. Finally, I realized that little kids are actually a lot more curious and intelligent than we give them credit for, and I was happy to see a new side of little kids that I'd never before thought about." Finally, a special shout-out to the charismatic "12.75" year-old Angust "Gus" LaFemina. Gus' busy schedule this summer (NASA space camp among other things) only afforded him the opportunity to volunteer twice for Miss Kitty. But those two occasions were awesome. A natural ambassador and highly engaging young man, Gus launched his volunteer day with Miss Kitty by discussing the effect of science education on girls and how it related to global pollution and environmental activism. Homeschooled, Gus is attempting to waive high school and go directly to Stanford University. Miss Kitty just hopes he comes back next summer and considers a presidential bid someday.

Kathleen responded to Supervisor Judy Arnold's call in support for the humanitarian work being done by the Border Angels. Kathleen created 100 MCFL backpacks for children in migrant shelters. Included in the age-specific backpacks were Spanish and bilingual books for babies through 12-year-olds. Kathleen filled the bags with writing materials, MCFL's Steam bilingual activity book, small games, and some previous summer reading game t-shirts for the older children. The books Kathleen donated were purchased several years ago by the Marin County Friends of the Library for outreach purposes. Supervisor Arnold and her team were very happy to receive this gift from the library and Kathleen hopes they backpacks get into the hands of the children who badly need them.

For the second year in a row, a member of the California Room team has been honored by the Marin History Museum as Historian of the Year. This year, renowned local historian -and our own map archivist- Dewey Livingston became the 2019 Historian of the Year! During the History Museum's event Dewey also received recognition from State Assemblyman Mark Levine. California Room Librarian Laurie Thompson was the Museum's "Historian of the Year" in 2018.

Tim Wood, descendant of Marin County pioneers from both the Cushing and Eldridge families generously donated a rare collection of family portraits depicting –among others- Dr. John J. Cushing who founded the Blithedale Hotel in what is today Mill Valley; John Oscar Eldridge who was the driving force behind the Eldridge Grade on Mt. Tamalpais; and Sidney Barlow Cushing, founding president of the Mill Valley and Mount Tamalpais Railway. This collection spans five generations and covers the period from 1860 to 1912. The collection was originally assembled by Grace Nettleton Cushing (1862-1942), her daughter Eleanor "Dolly" Cushing Jenkins (1889-1981), and her granddaughter Eleanor Jenkins Wood (1918-2017). Tim donated it to the Anne T. Kent California Room in memory of these three women. Before donating the collection, Tim carefully organized and preserved the original photographs in archival sleeves & binder. He also digitized the entire collection (according to our specs) and provided the digital images and metadata to Digital Archivist Carol Acquaviva who added it to our online digital archive.

Digitization dominated the month of August as we dedicated much of our energy to planning and carrying out a week-long digitization project thanks to funding from philanthropist Jeff Craemer and to the expertise of ACT3 Partners Digital Archiving Services. Digital Archivist Carol Acquaviva created customized spreadsheets and metadata; Librarian Laurie Thompson worked with our fantastic volunteers at the Annex to select & organize maps; photograph albums; & documents to be digitized. Map Archivist Dewey Livingston scheduled the volunteers and was the first to arrive early every morning to ensure that the day's digitization process would run seamlessly. This was our third annual "digitization intensive" and this time we digitized some of our most challenging materials including an 8x6-foot map of Marin from 1911; several hundred extra-large "rolled" maps; two official Marin County maps (1873 & 1892), one of which is framed & glazed & both of which have comprehensive information on landowners & important geographic features of the Marin peninsula; 10 rare photograph albums; & a selection of surveyors' field books and job books. Once ACT3 finalizes the post-processing & we receive the digital files, all of the items digitized will be added to our online digital archive for the enjoyment and edification of the community.

The very generous local philanthropist Jeff Craemer (right) has just donated $29,000. to the California Room. The Library Foundation is kindly managing these funds for us. and 8-foot wide pull-down screen to enhance our Monday evening local history presentations; & archival supplies for our maps and special collections.

Steve Haller -on contract with the Federal Government- needed a quiet space to conduct an oral history with a former worker at the U.S. Radar Station, once active on the Point San Pedro Peninsula – just down the road from the Civic Center. Corte Madera

Staff member Jackie Foster, Library Assistant II, kicked off a new project to partner with local laundromats to support literacy. She is coordinating MCFL's new "library corners" in laundromats in Corte Madera and San Anselmo, including providing materials, and working to design a spot with the laundromat owner, Michael Gralnick, who is generously providing support with space and furniture.

After a young patron was welcomed and encouraged to try reading some stories that appealed, Mom shared that "this was the first time her son was excited about reading". The positive conversation really made a difference—and, we were able to help the whole family, as we also recommended our "Read to a dog" program to the sibling who is a reluctant reader, and then helped mom with ideas for fun vacation reads for her, as well.

Thank you so much for providing this program! My children are: so engaged, and it makes me so: happy to see their love for reading! They are highly motivated by prizes, and any thing educational (James, school supplies, puzzles, books) makes sense. The staff is always so helpful, and I feel so pleased with our library!!

A teenager came into the library, accompanied by a friend who could help translate, to get a library card. It turns out he had only been in the country for three days. We were one of his first stops! After giving him a library card, Shereen Ash showed him the Spanish language materials, explained how to use our public computers and how to borrow Chromebooks, and pulled out some books that might appeal (he ended up checking out one.) Since then, he has come back frequently to use the library.

In August we saw a lot of people coming to the library for help with downloading ebooks on a variety of devices, from Amazon Fires to iPads to Kindles. Often people have received a device like a Kindle from a family member, and are not quite sure how to go about getting books from the library and setting things up. Knowing that the library can provide a supportive, helpful experience is something people really appreciate. Recently, a mom wanted to know how to use a Kindle so that she could read in bed without disturbing her partner, as she was trying to combat insomnia. Another patron was so excited to learn he could download audiobooks that he exclaimed – wow, this is going to save me a lot of money! And sometimes, people have just not used their device in a long time, and need a few gentle reminders. The library can help!

Corte Madera

In collaboration with Marin Health and Marin General Hospital, and with the support of the Friends of the Corte Madera Library, we are once again hosting the eight-week fall prevention class, "A Matter of Balance." The fear of falling is a major concern for our senior population. Earlier, we collaborated with the California Highway Patrol to offer a 2-hour training on driving safety for seniors. Forty-five people attended, and received a certificate of completion to present to their auto insurance carrier for a reduction in fees.

In addition to supporting the health of our community, the library is also a partner in fighting crime! One of our patrons shared that her car was stolen (from their home) and she was contacted by the police to let her know they had found it--the police had done a raid on a home and found her keys. They were able to track her down because she had her library key chain card on her ring!

And finally, branch staff have been happy to explain that there are no more late fees assessed by our system!

Corte Madera Brief Additional Updates

- Julie Magnus, Branch Manager, attended the Education Equity forum on Aug.29, 2019.
- New project manager for the County DPW, Michael Shane, has been working on a plan for repairing some of Corte Madera Library's facility issues, with first priority being our roof!

Iris Meinolf, Children's Librarian, hosted Circle of Smiles on August 3. The families that attended had a great time learning to sharpen their focus, build their strength, improve their balance and agility, and other skills necessary to become a ninja. This was a terrifically engaging program that lasted a full hour and kept everyone's attention!

Fairfax

The One Tam Roving Ranger came to visit the Fairfax Library on August 16, and distributed temporary tattoos, bookmarks, maps and other information about our State Park. The One Tam volunteer was kept busy answering questions from kids and adults, many who also stayed to admire the photos of animals found on Mt. Tam.

A young boy who's been coming to the library since he was in arms asked Janet Hughes, Library Asst. 1, what she likes best about her job. She said "helping kids like you!" which made him blush, and she added "and helping people find the right book. That's really fun." His eyes lit up, and he said "like finding the last piece in a jigsaw puzzle!" This kid gets it.

John Elison, Library Asst. 2 and April Hayley, Adult/Teen Services Librarian 2, hosted a teen program featuring Scott Gifford teaching ukulele to teens. This was a great interactive program; Scott has people playing a song after they learned their first chord. Several teens attended, and three adults were also extremely interested. Staff members also dropped in to strum along. Scott brought 15 tuned ukuleles for the class, and John donated a ukulele to be raffled which was won by the first teen who showed up. Scott passed out magnets with his contact info and declared "I am now your ukulele teacher for LIFE!" Any attendees who emailed him received a reply with chord charts and other helpful handouts.

A patron who is visually impaired has come to the library several times to receive technical assistance using Overdrive to download e-audiobooks to her phone. We have discovered that Overdrive is not user-friendly with the screen-reader app on her phone, and turning off the screen-reader allows her to download more easily. Staff have now helped her multiple times, and she's very appreciative.

The adults who attended were intrigued and interested in trying other VR programs. April reports she will definitely hold this program again.

When was the last time someone received a real letter from you? Iris Meinolf, Children's Librarian, and Janet Hughes, Library Asst. 1, provided stamps, stationary, collage materials, and two typewriters on Saturday August 24. Two women stayed almost the entire time using the typewriters; Janet showed folks how to make their own envelopes, and a mom with two children wrote a letter to their dad. This was a very sweet family event which we decided would make a great drop-in program. Complementing this idea was a wonderful display by April featuring books with an epistolary theme.

Brief Additional Updates

- Mildred Arencibia, Metadata Librarian at TEC, posted an illustrated essay by Neil Gaiman/Chris Riddell on Backstage. Inspired by an idea from Iris, John laminated all the pages and posted them around the library. Every page is a tiny testimony to the importance of libraries, and it's a treasure hunt for anyone who wants to read the whole thing.
- > John Elison, Library Asst. 2, completed his MLIS with North Texas University on August 10.
- Margaret Miles, Branch Manager, took April Hayley on a visit to the 4 West Marin branches on August 27. April got to meet the staff and tour all four locations.

Marin City

On Saturday, August 10, Point Reyes National Seashore Association provided a group of Marin City kids and caregivers with a trip to West Marin. This was offered to us by Raemona Little Taylor's husband Isaac and his colleagues. Diana worked with Felecia Gaston of Performing Stars to get participants for the trip, and the Friends of the Marin City Library purchased boxed lunches for the group. Danny Khuu attended on behalf of the branch. They got to see Tule Elk!

We did our weekly STEAM activities at Bayside MLK as part of the community partner SumMERSION program. The kids made flicker bugs. Each used their creativity to design and create their own light-up "bug" with materials like pipe cleaners, different colored LEDs, feathers, and more.

Etienne has resumed digital literacy classes on Wednesday afternoons. It is a collaboration with Performing Stars of Marin and the Marin City Community Services District. Etienne has a community volunteer named Dave who is very knowledgeable and helpful. On August 28, kids learned to program circuit boards.

Novato

Novato kids have gone back to school and the library is much quieter minus our incredible numbers of 50+ kids and families in attendance for all our story times and programs! Last week letters went out to all elementary schools highlighting the services the Novato Library staff can offer; requests for school visits have already started coming in. Spanish Services Library Assistant II Silvia Molina and Children's Services Supervisor Laura Kennett went out to meet the new principal at Rancho Elementary on the first Friday of school and participated in their morning movement activity. Silvia and Laura also went to Lynwood Elementary for a Newcomers event and signed up six people for library cards. Most families spoke Spanish and had no idea where the public library was located.

This year Silvia will be doing a bilingual reading circle geared towards 2nd to 4th graders. She has already started reaching out to the schools and parents and is getting valuable feedback on the time of her program along with some sign-ups!

Martha, the Library Clerk at Rancho Elementary, contacted Novato Children's Services Supervisor Laura Kennett to let her know the kids are back in school and that this year, all 3rd, 4th and 5th graders now have access to a Chrome book. Martha wants to help them gain access to e-Audi books with their MCFL library cards. Laura put together some detailed information for Martha about using the Overdrive/Libby app and Hoopla and encouraged her to share it with other teachers and schools.

South Novato

This Summer, South Novato and Novato piloted a new way to measure Children/Family engagement using a simple survey app called Tapyness. Here is what we found...

* We reached 544 first-time patrons in the children's area

(37% of visitors!).

- * 29% took the survey in Spanish!
- * 43% said Books & Media brought them to the library
- * 33% said Activities or Events
- * 25% said Helpful Staff/Personal Service

Seeing so many new users at the library was exciting! South Novato also partnered again with NUSD's Camp University to reach students and families. We provided maker workshops and summer challenge opportunities for 178 students. We created 32 library cards for parents, and gave away 242 bilingual books for families to keep at home (on left: family plays with marble maze at Camp U Family Day).

One highlight: We hosted field trips for 80 middle schoolers from Hamilton's Skyhawk Camp. Wow do those young adults love the library! We did tons of Reader's Advisory during the visit and found out 5th-8th graders' top request: cooking programs! We also created new/duplicate cards for every student. Many had lost their previous card. We can see that 88% of students are using their cards with 56% having used it since the field trip – that's 25 students using it for the first time! Thanks to John Elison (Fairfax), Sara Bolduc, Ezra and our XR Stars for the last minute help! (on left: 6th graders during the field trip)

Our campus also hosted the California Film Institute's My Place My Story program Aug 5th-9th. Ten high school students attended this five-day program where they learned the basics of filmmaking and storytelling. Each participant completed their own 3-5 minute digital story. Technical Services, eServices and Marketing Brief Additional Updates Tech Support staff are in the process of replacing older wireless networking access points (AP) with 802.11AC Wave 2 Unbiquiti APs. The new Ubiquiti products boast a throughput of up to 2,533 Mbps; which is much better than the 300 Mbps that the older Aerohive 802.11n products were capable of providing. So far, new APs have been deployed at FAI, MCI and TEC (TEC was the testing location).

MCTUG Meeting was held on August 8th. The following items were discussed during the meeting:

- How to remotely access Express Lane or Bibliotheca selfcheck systems with TightVNC
- Using Skype Interviews for one-on-one online meetings (Very brief discussion, as Skype is discontinuing this product as on 8/31/19)
- Status of License for Novelist Select for 3m self checks systems (Corte Madera)--expired?
- Print job releasing issues from Library Document Stations
- Windows 10 Updates and issues with Public PCs
- Second Chance email link from KnowBe4 to give staff one last chance before opening a link that may be related to malware.

The Tech Support staff tested a new remote access solution from ConnectWise called Access. This product allows Tech Support staff to remotely connect to staff or public computers to help with computing issues. Access shows key information about the remote computer including the operating system version and build, processor type, amount of memory in use and total memory, IP address, MAC address, processes running and many more. This all helps in diagnosing and solving issues. Below is screen capture of some of that information for a system at the Bolinas Library:

- > Damon and Jim attended the CALIFA Fair to get overview of new services and products.
- Decided not to renew Lynda.com
- > Began meeting with contractors to do immediate repairs on roofs of Corte Madera and Novato in preparation for rainy season with longer term plans for more long-term solution with design work at Corte Madera.
- > Began process of collaborating design work on Fairfax Community Garden.

West Marin Literacy Services delivered another successful year of our Reading on the Ranches summer reading program. Jo Ann Kempf and her team of teen aides delivered 711 books to 98 children living on remote ranches from Inverness to Tomales. We offered families additional support with two new lending programs: Wi-Fi hot spots and play kits to encourage hands on experiential learning for young children.

Our 2019 Summer Reading "Tales to Trails" program had 175 children and 101 teen participants.

August Highlights:

- Marin County Parks trip to Stafford Lake where families learned to make abalone shell jewelry, ziplined, and heard Miwok stories.

"Dolores Huerta is among the most important, yet least known, activists in American history. An equal partner in co-founding the first farm workers unions with Cesar Chavez, her enormous contributions have gone largely unrecognized. Dolores tirelessly led the fight for racial and labor justice alongside Chavez, becoming one of the most defiant feminists of the twentieth century"

The Marin Queer and Trans support group continues to meet at Stinson Beach Library twice a month. Discussion and support topics are kept confidential, but overall feedback from the community has been positive and participants report feeling supported and safe in this space.

The Point Reyes Library's current exhibit is photography of Dolores Huerta's activism over the years by Bolinas photographer, Ilka Hartmann.

A great trip to the East Peak of Mount Tamalpais happened on August 17th! 28 members of our ranch communities participated in the trip which was a joint project of the National Parks (Jasmine Reinhardt), State Parks and the library. Although our families have lived in Marin for many years, this was the first time any had been to Mount Tamalpais. All had a wonderful time even though the cold fog was blowing over the mountain on that particular day. All of the families planned to visit again and Rosanna Petralia (State Park ranger) plans to visit Laguna School and our ranch families and bring more programming to them. The goal to make our families feel that parks are a welcoming place certainly came true that day.

Our trip to Mount Tamalpais was a great success. The paved trail circling the peak was perfectly accessible for our wheelchair users and gave us dramatic views of San Francisco and the bay between drifts of rolling fog. The opportunity to see our bay from the highest point in Marin was a new vantage point for all of our families. Santiago, a volunteer with the State Parks, translated the Ranger Rosanna's informational talk for all of our Spanish speakers. The views were great, the lunch was enjoyed and all of our families left with reusable water bottles from the One Tam group and plans to come again.

MARINet Board Meeting Minutes

September 19, 2019 MCFL Tech Services 1600 Los Gamos Dr., Suite 180, San Rafael CA 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

Present: Abbot Chambers (Sausalito), Anji Brenner (Mill Valley), Sara Jones, (MCFL), Linda Kenton (San Anselmo), Sarah Frye (College of Marin), Debbie Mazzolini (Belvedere-Tiburon), Dan Schwartz (Larkspur), Henry Bankhead (San Rafael). MARINet staff: Dan McMahon and Jessica Trenary.

- I. Public Comment period: Community member Bill Hale brought to the attention of the Board that OverDrive recently eliminated the ability for users to download audiobook MP3 files onto Mac laptop and desktop computers, leaving streaming as the only option. Hale also expressed dissatisfaction with the technical support response he received from OverDrive.
- II. Introduction of Guests

The Board welcomed Dan Schwartz, Larkspur City Manager, who will attend meetings until a new Director is hired for the Larkspur Library. The Board wishes Janice well and thanks her for her service as Chair this past year.

- III. Approval of minutes, July 18, 2019: MSA Brenner, Jones
- IV. Old Business

A. CENIC Update

McMahon reviewed CENIC history including varying expectations for what bandwidth was expected to cost. E-rate appears to be applicable now as the last bill showed a zero balance.

McMahon described ransomeware attacks some jurisdictions and libraries have recently experienced. McMahon assured the Board that MARINet security has been and continues to be strong, that being one of D. Cooper's (MarinIt) strengths. MARINet servers are hit hard on a regular basis but many security layers are in place for protection.

B. eBook Budgets

Chambers confirmed what community member Hale said was true and that it appears to have just occurred, possibly this week. McMahon reported that this change may affect up to 25% of OverDrive users.

Action item: Trenary will contact OverDrive for an explanation.

Trenary reviewed the eBook budget and of the various rules guiding licensing. DRWG considered and recommended a new eBook collection, "Skip the Line" which is like the walk- in bestseller/lucky day collections in libraries. Kenton expressed interest in using SA monies to support this new collection. Bankhead was willing to divert money saved from cancelling Lynda.com and Kanopy into OverDrive. The collection will be always available but not holdable.

Action item: Trenary will ask Bibliocommons if explanatory language can be added to the interface for the "Skip the Line" collection.

C. Additional Book Drops in Marin County—Tabled.

V. New Business

- A. Executive Committee Meetings—Chambers reported that the Executive Committee (Chair, Vice Chair, County Librarian and Systems Administrator) met by Go To meeting to identify agenda items, strategize on addressing issues, and hear concerns from MARINet staff. Chambers will send an email reminder to all Directors though Directors must claim their participation so as not to violate the Brown Act.
- B. Update on Fine Free Policies—MARINet staff provided a chart of fines' status for each member. Bel-Tib Library went completely fine free on August 1 and conducted a study before doing so. Most Board members expressed interest in seeing the document.

Action item: Mazzolini will share the study with Board members.

- 1. MV is planning to reduce DVD fines.
- 2. The city of SR will be conducting a master fee study and remaining library fines will be part of that.
- 3. MCFL reported that circulation increased and the funding shortfall was met by cuts.
- 4. SA reduced DVD fines in January and is currently studying the possibility of going fine free.
- 5. COM views fine free as an equity issue for students.
- 6. Bankhead raised the issue of increasing the maximum overdue fine from $10 up to $20. Reasoning involves the fact that materials are much more expensive now than when the maximum overdue was initially established.

Action item: Trenary will ask CWG to discuss the issue at their next meeting.

- 7. There was a robust Board discussion regarding fine free issues.
- 8. The Board will wait three months to see what data can be gathered on increased staff workload, any changes in long overdue and/or billed items, and changes in monies collected.
- C. Process for Updating the MARINet JPA—McMahon expressed three concerns about the current JPA: the Network, outdated technology language and whether the members continue to be unanimous in purchases/services or whether an a la carte model is acceptable. Schwartz recommended simplifying the JPA with addendums. Suggested organizing by Governance and Budget Structure. Schwartz further suggested that a committee reviews the JPA, section by section, makes changes and then sends that document out to the whole board for approvals.

- 1. The Board agreed to create a Task Force for this matter with volunteers Brenner, Chambers, Jones, Mazzolini and McMahon accepting the challenge.
- 2. McMahon agreed to document technical concerns with the JPA as a starting point for the task force.
- 3. Schwartz agreed to send some examples to the task force and offered to review the work.
- 4. Trenary suggested that work in progress could be put on Thurston for easy access by the Board.
- D. NBCLS and the October Meeting of the MARINet Board—Kenton reported that the NBCLS Board was to meet on the third Thursday of October for a final vote on cost-sharing for CalPERS obligations for the legacy system. She recommended that the MARINet Board incorporate the NBCLS meeting into the agenda. The Board agreed to a 10:00am time for the conference call. A discussion followed about the nature of the cooperative library systems and how Marin libraries fit or do not fit into the current framework. Jones offered to inquire at the State Library about the laws that create the cooperative systems: necessity of "contiguous geography" for membership and could MARINet be considered one with its JPA status and commitment to sharing (future of regional consortia).
- E. Counting Opinions and Decision Center
 - 1. Most Directors felt the product is expensive.
 - 2. MCFL remains interested as it will help with the state report and provides valuable infographics.
 - 3. It is too late to cancel Decision Center.
 - 4. Using money from the sinking fund for this is not an option at this time.
 - 5. There was discussion about MARINet implementing and utilizing the product solely for MCFL.

Action item: Trenary will contact Counting Opinions to inform them that the MARINet Board is not interested in the product.

- F. Public Safety Power Shutoffs (PSPS)—Not known at this time how MARINet office may or may not be impacted. Criticality of service will factor into decisions for keeping libraries open or not. Schwarz reported that Larkspur has purchased industrial air scrubbers and MARINet will be purchasing additional flashlights.
- G. Board Goals/Initiatives for 2019-20
 - 1. Study overdue fines across jurisdictions
 - 2. RFID, particularly in consortia
 - 3. Examine the possibility of system-wide collection development
 - 4. MARINet work/tasks assessment to understand if MARINet staffing is adequate.

VI. Standing Items for the Agenda

- A. System Administrator's Report—Highlights include three new Express Lane systems, new telephone system at MARINet so be patient with calls, and finally got a bill for ENKI. Refer to DRWG for their review of ENKI usage after one year.
- B. Correspondence—there was none
- C. Topics for future agenda
 - 1. CENIC update
 - 2. Additional book drops in Marin County
 - 3. JPA
 - 4. NBCLS conference call
 - 5. Board Goals/Initiatives
 - 6. One Book One Marin
 - 7. High School Librarian layoffs
 - 8. Future of Regional Consortia

VII. Non-Action items—there were none
